"I've taken my three kids (two girls and a boy) to and helped run more than 200 US Chess rated tournaments. When kids know the tournaments are rated, they are even more motivated to try their hardest. Recently I sponsored an At Risk Youth team, so they would also have the opportunity to travel to and compete in a scholastic national championship. I volunteer my time and donate to US Chess because chess is a wonderful way for kids to compete and for families to connect."

CHESS IN THE U.S.

Recent studies estimate that more than 13 million Americans play chess regularly, while another 46.6 million play occasionally. That doesn't surprise us at US Chess — we're in the middle of a boom that shows no signs of abating. Three Americans are in the world's top 10 and six in the top 20. Our focus is on nurturing the next generation, and our national tournaments are consistently setting new attendance records.

Chess is universal. It's a unique bridge between cultures, because anyone can play chess regardless of age, gender, physical capacities, or even language. Our tournaments — scholastics, in particular — reflect our rich diversity, transcending perceived differences and building a strong community.

Sponsors of our events gain exposure to a broad, engaged, and diverse audience, both in our flagship magazine Chess Life (with a print circulation of over 18,000) and on our Chess Life Online website, which attracts 110,000 unique users each month seeking the latest chess news, tournament opportunities, local clubs, and more.
